

Our subcommittees met this evening to begin action planning. With our objectives in place, we are now tasked with answering the question: How will we go about achieving our objectives? We held brainstorming sessions to gather potential “action items”, generating a host of ideas that ranged from lofty to very detailed. The discussions will continue next week as we work to prioritize focus areas, agree on specific actions and timelines, and discern ownership and measurable goals.

We decided that an additional meeting was necessary while the momentum was strong. The additional meeting was set for Saturday morning, November 21 from 9-11am. We pray that a strong majority will be able to attend.

Our second to last meeting will then be next Tuesday, November 17 at 7pm.
